Marissa J. Pullano focuses her practice on all aspects of matrimonial and family law, including contested proceedings regarding the equitable distribution of substantial real property and assets, child support and spousal maintenance, paternity, custody and access, and order modification and enforcement.

Marissa believes that all clients deserve significant attention as they navigate the court system. She strives to achieve resolutions that minimize conflict, but acts as a zealous advocate on behalf of her clients in the courtroom when litigation cannot be avoided.

Prior to joining Jaspan Schlesinger LLP, Marissa gained significant experience in all aspects of complex matrimonial litigation at a South Florida-based law firm.

Outside of the law, Marissa is active in fundraising efforts on behalf of the National PKU Alliance, whose mission is to improve the lives of individuals living with phenylketonuria (PKU) and to pursue a cure. She also sits on the Alumni Association Board of Governors of her alma mater, the Catholic University of America.
